

-What's that loud noise?

-It's the first Saturday of the month.
They're testing the alarm system

-No, It's Wednesday.

-Do you think it's a real emergency?

-I've only ever heard it go off
once a month on a Saturday.

The ground shook and rumbled.
The concrete of the street cracked open. Heat escaped from a deep hole along with a roar so loud the warning of the klaxon could no longer be heard.
